Oh Danny Boy... It was announced that long time Woodbine Thoroughbred announcer Dan Loiselle is retiring from the broadcast booth on May 31, 2015, bringing a 29-year career as thoroughbred race caller to a close. "It's been an absolute privilege to announce some of Canada's greatest races. My family and I owe everything we have to horse racing," said Loiselle. "I want to thank the racing fans for all the kind things they have said to me over the years, my fellow employees at Woodbine Entertainment and the horse people. We are a family here at Woodbine, and I have formed friendships that will last a lifetime." A native of Scarborough, Ontario, Loiselle got his start at Woodbine, then known as the Ontario Jockey Club, as an assistant race secretary in the standardbred division and backup announcer on August 1, 1967. During his 17-year tenure as a standardbred announcer, Loiselle stamped his voice on some of the circuit's most important races including the North America Cup, Maple Leaf Trot and Breeders Crown. From his perch on the sixth floor, Loiselle has called home five Triple Crown champions including Approval (1989), Izvestia (1990), Dance Smartly (1991), Peteski (1993) and Wando (2003.)
